"Who Controls You?"

Those who are dominated by the sinful nature think about sinful things, but those who are controlled by the Holy Spirit think about things that please the Spirit. — Romans 8:5 NLT

We don't like to be controlled. However, we will be controlled either by our sinful nature or by the Spirit of God. There are no middle options (Ephesians 2:1-3; Romans 6). While politically incorrect, deep in the core of our souls we know it's true. The things that Satan entices us to think of as freedom invariably end up damaging us, our relationships, and our future. They enslave us to addictive processes, systems, and habits. We are sucked into the vortex of sin's power: Our thoughts are increasingly controlled by sin's enslaving lifestyle. The Spirit, however, frees us from this bondage. The Spirit gives us the power to live with freedom, enjoying a life full of his fruit — love, joy, peace, forbearance, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control (Galatians 5:22-23). And our role? First, we must choose to actively seek the Spirit's influence over our will. Second, we must commit to responding to his lead in what we think and do (Galatians 5:25). When we look at our lives, do we see our thoughts and actions dominated by the sinful nature or by the Spirit? If the sinful nature is dominating us, it's time to go back and focus on our role of seeking the Spirit and responding to his lead!

Fruits of Me, Myself, and I

There is no lemon as sour and distasteful as selfishness. Selfishness destroys relationships, brings dissatisfaction to one's life, and hinders the work of the church.

How can we know if we have become self-centered? By examining the fruits of our lives! Our fruit has to do with our conduct...the way we act, talk, and even think. Our actions, talking, and thinking reveal who we are focused on. We are told in Scripture to "esteem others more highly than ourselves" (Phil. 2:4).

Who do we esteem in our thoughts? Who do we esteem in our talking and in our actions? Is our constant focus upon how good we are, or, are we happy to applaud the goodness of others? Do we enjoy boasting of ourselves, and then make it a hobby to tear others down? Do our actions show that our interests are much more important than the needs of our brethren? Do we have time for everything we would like to do, but so little for the church? The answer to these questions are insightful and perhaps even painful. They may reveal that we are more selfish than we would like to be.

May God help us to inspect our own fruit, and change it to be more palatable in His sight! It will be a blessing to us and to those around us.
